Subject: Peter Stone Brown's Review of the new Springsteen record

Please see my link to the terrific review of Springsteen's new record, Wrecking Ball by Peter Stone Brown. I've been listening to the new Springsteen record for the last week and PSB's review perfectly captures this wonderful record. PSB, when it comes to writing about music, your in the same class as Ralph J. Gleason, Paul Nelson, Peter Guralnick, Mikal Gilmore and John Baudie. Every music fan who has ever cared about Springsteen will want to read your review of this record. Great job.

Kevin J, I think it's the best record anyone has made since 'Love and Theft'. I hope you read Peter Stone Brown's review because it's perfect. The kind of music writing we use to find in Rolling Stone. When I was a kid I use to hitchhike 20 miles to get the latest issue. It was always the best day. That was a long long time ago. Before yuppie writers like Rob Sheffield ruined it. PSB is the kind of old school music writer that you can't find anymore.
